EPA regulations questioned in Hancock well shutdown

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A unique permit problem experienced by the operator of a Hancock County underground injection disposal well revealed differences in state and federal waste drilling fluid regulations.

Those differences resulted in temporary confusion among state agencies and halted the operator's work for a few days.

Celeron Oil and Gas Co. of Lafayette, La. several months ago was issued a permit by the State Oil and Gas Board to drill and operate a saltwater disposal well to serve a nearby Tuscaloosa Formation producer in Section 19, Township Nine South, Range 15 West-east of Port Bienville Industrial Park.

John Harper, State Department of Natural Resources Bureau of Pollution Control law enforcement chief, reported recently that Celeron paid a $4,500 fine to the state after discharging drilling fluids twice into a nearby swamp area from a reserve pit located next to the producing well named International Paper Co. No. One.

The discharge was relatively minor and caused no environmental damage, but since Celeron was warned of the 'technical violation' after the first spill the fine was imposed after the second, Harper explained.

The fluid is a mixture of drilling mud, water and chemicals pumped down and up a well being dug to cool and lubricate the drilling bit.

Linda Clemens, a Federal Environmental Protection Agency Region Four hydrologist in Atlanta, Ga., said Wednesday that drilling fluids are generally not considered or classified as hazardous wastes, but the agency's regulations do not include the fluids in a list of substances allowed in oil and gas industry injection wells (listed in the federal Underground Injection Control Program manual as Class Two wells).

Harper said Celeron then began pumping the reserve pit fluids underground into the saltwater disposal well when the oil and gas board shut the operation down based on the EPA regulations.

Clemens reported the state board regulates only Class Two wells. The law enforcement chief said the Lafayette company asked for an emergency board hearing in which BPC personnel testified underground injection of drilling fluids was 'not only environmentally sound, but desirable.'

Theresa Moody, oil and gas board hearings administrator, reported recently that the board's technical staff shut down the Celeron well for about two or three days until the matter was resolved at the hearing in which a permit was issued to include drilling fluids disposal.

Harper said Celeron, a relative newcomer in Mississippi oil and gas exploration, was apparently disposing the fluids in the well because this is an established practice in Louisiana and Texas where the company operates extensively.

He said those two states are in EPA Region Six which allows drilling fluid disposal by underground injection.

"There seems to be a reluctance on the part of EPA Region Four to consider drilling fluids as an oil well drilling waste," Harper stated.

The BPC law enforcement chief said the Celeron case is the only one of its type encountered in Mississippi because most drillers here hire companies to dispose or treat drilling fluids elsewhere.

Harper noted Celeron chose to inject the drilling fluids underground since the company had already dug the disposal facility to get rid of saltwater flowing along with oil and gas from International Paper Co. Well No. One.

He reported a disposal well costs about $2 million to drill as compared to the conventional waste drilling fluid practice which runs about $40,000 per well.

Harper said the saltwater is environmentally more harmful than drilling fluids, but due to its mud and chloride content the material should not be placed in wetland areas.

Mike Prudhomme, Celeron communications manager, stated, "We are doing what's necessary to conform with all state regulations."

Harper stated regarding the federal regulations, "There is still a question to be resolved through dialog between the oil industry and EPA."

But Sylvia Taylor, Mississippi Petroleum Council office manager in Jackson, reported Wednesday that the organization has not become involved in that issue.

In addition, Clemens revealed efforts are underway to allow states to regulate all of their own injection wells.

Fred Hille, BPC Industrial Wastewater Division Underground Injection Control Program geologist, said Wednesday that there are five classes of disposal wells.

He reported a Class One well is utilized by industrial and municipal generators of hazardous wastes.

He said the wastes must be injected

Mayor's drainage plan approved by Bay Council

By JUNE M. HEYDT

Mayor Larry Bennett's action plan for attacking problems with the drainage systems in Bay St. Louis was approved by the Bay City Council Tuesday night.

Council members accepted a proposal from Bennett requesting $33,179 for the purchase of pipes to be used for repairs in the Spanish Acres and Cedar Point areas as well as on DeMontuzin Street and Ulman Avenue.

Bennett said the Hancock County Board of Supervisors has promised equipment and labor to repair these drainage systems, if the city provides the material.

The mayor also said that work can start immediately after purchase of the materials.

Bennett will submit a proposal for Washington, Main, State, and Second Streets and Carroll Avenue at the next council meeting.

The council authorized Brown Engineers, Inc. of Gulfport to study the emergency problem at the corner of Necaise Street and Carroll Avenue and to prepare plans and specs to have the problem corrected.

James Thriffley, councilman, said the main cause of this problem is a hole under the black top that was never filled. Thriffley said that several years ago when the hole was dug for a sewage line to be placed, a water main broke and filled the hole with water.

Against the recommendations of the engineers to not cover it with hard surface, the hole was black topped without being drained and back filled, Thriffley added.

Council agreed on Brown Engineers because they are familiar with the problem.

In other business, Gene Taylor, councilman, suggested that the council hire an engineer. The engineer would be a full-time salaried employee.

Jody Gex, council attorney, said, "If council does hire an engineer it could save the city a lot of money." Bennett added, "His services would be invaluable."

Council passed the motion to create the new position for an engineer and authorized the city clerk to check into other counties to see what it will cost and what sort of specifications would be required for the hiring of an engineer.

The mayor was authorized to obtain a proposal from Broadway and Seal Engineers on the work that has to be done to correct the problem of sinkage around the manhole at the corner of Beach Boulevard and State Street.

An account of $3,000 was set up for the Bay St. Louis chief of police to purchase bullet proof vests for policemen.

Ron Murray of Ron Murray Consultants, Inc. said the city has received a letter from the Department of Housing and Urban Development stating that Bay St. Louis is eligible to participate in the Urban Development Action Grant Program.

Murray noted that the next funding deadline for submitting applications is August 31. He also noted that there are several developers interested in UDAG applications.

A motion was passed for the city to advertise to receive proposals for the preparation of the UDAG application and administration of the grant.

The UDAG program is designed to Charges dropped against Bay men

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Local judges dismissed charges against two Bay St. Louis men recently arrested charged in unrelated incidents.

Justice Court Judge Bruce Necaise of District Four confirmed Tuesday that in a June 15 hearing he dismissed an indecent exposure charge against Floyd Cantrelle, 51, of 607 Spanish Acres Drive.

In the other incident, Bay City Judge Joseph Benvenuti said Tuesday that in a June 8 hearing he dismissed a charge of breaking and entering an occupied dwelling which was brought against Scotty Gyins, 25, of 549 Sycamore St.

Benvenuti said the charge in the alleged State Street incident was dismissed due to insufficient evidence.

Hancock company suing Texas firm for $19 million

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The president of a Hancock County firm involved in refurbishing two offshore oil rigs at Port Bienville Industrial Park filed a Federal District Court class action suit recently seeking more than $19 million in damages from a Houston, Tex. company.

Rodney O. Gonzales of Diamondhead, president of Gonzales Marine Enterprises, Inc. of Port Bienville, recently filed through his attorney, Stanford E. Morse Jr. of Gulfport, the $19,000,500 suit in Biloxi Federal Court against Dolphin Titan International, Inc.

Dolphin officials named in the suit include Charles Van Duzer, legal counsel; E.D. Shepherd, company president; and two yet-to-be-named defendants.

Van Duzer was not available for comment.

Court documents filed by Morse state Dolphin asked Gonzales to bid on the project involving the refurbishing of two 'cantilevered work-over rigs' at Port Bienville.

Morse says Gonzales received the contract with a bid of $12.3 million which was $4.6 million less than the next lowest quotation.

Gonzales charges Dolphin's 'fraudulent acts and omissions...were for the purpose of avoiding liability to subcontractors and suppliers of goods, services and materials...' suit documents state.

Gonzales says Dolphin, a subsidiary of Butz Oil and Gas Co. of California, owes about $1.4 million to 65-70 vendors in eight states that participated in the Port Bienville work.

The company president reports the class action was filed to allow the vendors to participate in the suit.

Gonzales says about half of the service companies thus far have joined him in the federal court action.

The court documents state Gonzales acquired 90 percent of Gonzales

Why Cono Caranna is running for District Attorney.

All over our 3-county area, people are losing their trust in our legal system.

There's too much crime. We hear of questionable plea-bargaining deals that put criminals back on our streets. We see white-collar crime ignored. We watch as the federal government investigates our public officials.

Cono Caranna wants to restore the public's trust in our legal system. As District Attorney, he will.

The experience we need.

Cono Caranna has been working in law enforcement for the past ten years.

As City Attorney for Biloxi, he's worked closely with police. Helping them coordinate investigations. Making sure they built solid cases. Advising them on points of law.

He served as a Commissioner on the Mississippi Bar for three years — elected by the attorneys of Harrison, Hancock and Stone Counties.

He has the knowledge and experience to be our next District Attorney.

Restoring your trust.

As a City Attorney, I've seen first-hand the problems in the District Attorney's office.

The police are doing their jobs. They're making arrests. And the judges have taken a strong stand against convicted criminals.

But our criminal justice system won't work without trust. It's only as good as its chief law enforcement officer — the District Attorney. As your next District Attorney, I'll make sure the system works the same for everybody. I'll see to it that crime is investigated and prosecuted wherever it exists.

"I want to restore honesty and integrity to the office of District Attorney."

A Proven Leader.

Cono Caranna is a recognized leader in the legal profession. He was chosen State President of the City Attorney's Association, and President of the Harrison County Bar Association.

He's a member of the American Trial Lawyers Association and the National Institute of Municipal Law Officers.

He serves on the Executive Committee of the Mississippi Municipal Association.

His leadership was acknowledged in Viet Nam. An Infantry Company Commander, Caranna was awarded three Bronze Stars, the Air Medal, and the Purple Heart.

As a parent, he shares our concern over the influence of crime in our community. He and his wife Connie live in Biloxi with their two children, Katie, age 10, and Cono, age 8.

Let's elect Cono Caranna.

Cono Caranna is concerned with the problems in the District Attorney's office. And he's ready to do something about them.

On August 2nd, let's elect Cono Caranna, District Attorney.

Isn't it wonderful these summer days, to bite into a ripe tomato fresh from the garden, instead of those wintertime excuses for tomatoes in the markets?

I think that I could almost exist solely on tomatoes and other fresh vegetables, especially at this time of year, and never miss the steak or chop or whatever.

My tomato patch consists of one straggly plant with one blossom, in a large planter tub but my more ambitious - and more "green-thumb" friends generously share their bounty with me, lucky me!

I even snatch a few of their green tomatoes if they don't keep an eye on me, for I like fried green tomatoes so much. I just like tomatoes any way, from munching them right off the stalk, to cooking them in various ways.

Speaking of the green tomatoes, fried green tomatoes are so delicious that it's worth sacrificing - if you call it that - the pleasure of watching the tomatoes ripening. Here's

FRIED GREEN TOMATOES

4 or 6 green tomatoes, cut in thick slices

Flour for dusting
Salt, pepper to taste
Bacon fat or butter or margarine

Cup or so of cream or milk, optional

Dust the tomato slices thoroughly with flour and sprinkle with pepper and salt (or omit the salt, if you wish or need to). Heat the butter or bacon grease (I prefer the latter for this until it almost smokes - I use my iron skillet - and take care not to crowd the tomato slices in the skillet.

Cook over a medium hot fire until each side is a deep sun-tan brown, turning only once - it only takes several minutes for each side. They are good enough to eat now... but if you want the whole cream gravy bit, transfer the tomato slices to a platter, keeping them hot.

Add a spoon or so of flour to the juices remaining in the pan, blending all together and scraping up the tasty bits from the bottom of the pan, and then - very, very, very slowly, add a cup or so of cream or rich milk, depending upon the size of the tomato slices, and all that.

Cook for several minutes, stirring from time to time so that the whole business doesn't stick to the bottom of the skillet, then pour the gravy over the tomatoes. At this point, I add a generous pinch of basil to the dish, and a garnish of the bacon slices from which I obtained the bacon fat that is, if I haven't munched them away while cooking the tomatoes - that does happen around this house!

The contrast of flavors is what makes this dish so delicious - the fried tomatoes, the cream and so forth... but sometimes I just fry the tomatoes, after frying a few slices of bacon, and serve the tomatoes on toast with the bacon slices for garbush, along with fresh parsley.

In some parts, of France, the tomato slices are dipped in a thick egg and milk batter, fried in hot oil, and served with branches of parsley fried in the same oil.

STRANGE HEART DEFECTS

Dr. Wm. L. POWELL
Already one million Americans die annually of heart and circulation disease and the number increases yearly. But recently, a team of physicians reported that they have discovered various defects inside the hearts of some patients who die suddenly. They suspect that long heavy use of various tranquilizers might be a cause of the heart damage. The defects appear to be unique and of the types that might affect the heart's electrical conduction system and hence, its rhythm. In the scientific world, the Chiropractic profession has already attained praise for its work with the nerve electrical system of the body. It's a fact that one of the great benefits of Chiropractic care lies in its ability to protect and help the nerve electrical system and heart functioning at top performance. The preventive benefits of Chiropractic care are unmatched in the healing arts world. For good protection, see your doctor of Chiropractic.

Parishioners have been busy making plans for the fund raising event in recent weeks.

We understand there will be a variety of good foods available such as chicken gumbo.

The fair will be held on the school grounds, opening at 11 a.m.

We know the folks from Kiln would like to see their neighbors from Bay St. Louis and Waveland visit them and try their country cooking.

Tuesday was the first official day of summer and it came in just like the first day of spring, rather damp.

It seems all rain fall records should be broken for the area this year if the rains continue.

We know there are areas which receive more rain than we have been, but we are not supposed to get so much.

The weather just seems to be a good topic of discussion.

Congratulations are in order for Bay St. Louis native Leo Seal Jr. upon being chosen as King Neptune for the Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo.

This will be the 35th July 4 fishing event and is the official fishing rodeo for the State of Mississippi.

Seal's father, Leo Seal Sr., also had the honor of serving as King Neptune II.

The fishing rodeo, headquartered at Gulfport's Small Craft Harbor, has fishermen from many states trying their luck to get the 'big one.'

The amazing thing is the fact that it only takes a prior registration, and no entry fee to compete for the many prizes awarded to the top fisherman or women in so many categories.

We wish Leo well as King Neptune and hope his reign will set a record with the number of records broken.

The new redistricting lines for Hancock County Board of Supervisors, and Constables do not go into effect until Jan. 1, 1984.

These new lines, of course, will be used for the August Primary elections and General election in November, since the elected will not take office until the first of the year.

A legal advertisement publishing the boundary lines appears in this issue of The Sea Coast Echo.

There are some areas where persons living on one side of a street are in a different district than their neighbors across from them.

We know the Hancock County Election Commissioners are very busy checking the voter registrations, to make sure everyone is in the correct district.

The circuit clerk's office, since the approval of the redistricting by the Justice Department has been registering new electors in the correct districts.

As a reminder, persons who have not registered as yet, have until 5 p.m. on July 2 to register in order to vote in the August 2 primary.

Pregnant women smoke for two

When women smoke cigarettes during pregnancy, they are smoking for two, says Dr. Roland B. Robertson Jr. of Jackson, president of the Mississippi Lung Association.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE IS HELPING TO KILL ONE-SEVENTH OF AMERICA'S ADULTS. AND THEY DON'T EVEN KNOW IT.

Every year, hundreds of thousands of Americans die needlessly from heart disease, strokes and kidney failure caused by their High Blood Pressure. And most didn't know they had it.

So see a doctor, or visit a clinic. It's a lot better to know if you have High Blood Pressure, than to die from ignorance.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE. Treat it...and live.

conducting a new program entitled "Smoking and Pregnancy" and offers material for the expectant mother which provides data on the importance of quitting smoking during pregnancy and material for physicians, nurses and others who counsel pregnant patients.

The program theme is "Because You Love Your Baby, There Has Never Been A Better Time To Quit Smoking."

National statistics show that nearly half of the American pregnant women do not know how smoking affects the outcome of pregnancy.

"Studies covering 500,000 births have shown that women who smoke during pregnancy significantly increase their risks of miscarriage, stillbirth, having premature babies or babies with low birth weights or respiratory disease syndrome," Dr. Robertson added.

Material in the packet for the pregnant woman includes leaflets with the latest facts on the dangers of smoking and importance of improving the health of their unborn and newborn babies through smoking cessation.

The packet designed for medical persons includes useful charts and posters. Both packets suggest the use of the "Freedom From Smoking" program, self-help for persons wanting to quit smoking.

For information or to order Smoking and Pregnancy material, contact the Mississippi Lung Association, P.O. Box 9865, Jackson, MS 39206.

DUI penalties listed

During the 1983 legislative session Mississippi lawmakers enacted a tough and strict driving under the influence law.

The new law will not guarantee that drunk or drugged drivers will be removed from the streets and highways, but beginning July 1 the penalties drunken drivers face are far more severe than before.

Even before it's implemented, the law should deter drivers who drink alcohol, use drugs or take any other substance that impairs a person's ability to drive because DUI convictions occurring since July 1, 1981, are counted against them for a five-year period.

In addition to penalties for driving under the influence the bill contains provisions rewarding habitual DUI offenders who submit to treatment at an approved drug and alcohol treatment center.

A first offender may reduce the time of his driver license suspension if he completes a Mississippi Alcohol Safety Education Program (MASEP) school.

MASEP sites are located within a least 50 miles of all persons in the state of Mississippi.

Those convicted of second or subsequent DUI violations may reduce the time their driving privilege is suspended by receiving treatment for alcohol or drug abuse through the Department of Mental Health.

Diagnostic assessment and treatment are partly paid for by the recipient.

Successfully completed treatment means a person whose license was suspended may be reinstated after one year.

The new law seeks to lessen the chance for a plea bargain. If a driver is charged with driving with a blood alcohol concentration of .10%, the charge cannot be reduced to one that carries a lesser penalty.

Blood alcohol content can be measured on a breath testing instrument or through testing a sample of the driver's blood or urine.

A driver suspected of DUI does not have to be under arrest before he is requested to take a breath test.

Another major feature in the law is that a driver with .10 percent blood alcohol concentration is deemed guilty of DUI.

The violator must take steps to obtain a trial regarding his case within a 30-day period.

A person who is DUI and causes the death of another in an automobile accident may be charged with negligent homicide under the new law.

Felony penalties are now provided for those who are DUI and cause disfiguring or dismemberment of others in an automobile accident.

Conviction on such felony charges can result in the driver being sentenced to serve up to five years in prison.

Specific penalties include: —Persons convicted for the first time will be assessed a fine of $200-$500, have their driver license suspended for one year, ordered to spend at least 10 hours in a MASEP school and are subject to a 24-hour jail stay.

—First offenders who attend a MASEP school will have their license suspended for 90 days.

—Hardship driver license reinstatement appeals may be made only by first offenders and only after 45 days of the one year suspension have lapsed.

—Persons whose second DUI conviction occurs within a five-year period face a mandatory jail sentence of 48 hours to one year, a fine of $400-$1,000 and a two-year license suspension. The jail sentence may be suspended only if the offender performs at least 10 days to one year community service work.

—Persons convicted of DUI three times in five years will be sentenced to jail for 30 days to one year, fined from $500-$1,000 and have their license suspended for three years. The option of performing community service to spending time in jail does not apply to persons convicted of DUI three times.

—Persons who refuse to take the breath test receive an automatic 90-day license suspension and are fined from $500-$1,000. Prior DUI offenders who refuse to take the breath test receive a one-year license suspension, a fine of $500-$1,000, may be imprisoned up to 365 days or may be both fined and jailed.

—Persons convicted of driving while their licenses have been suspended because of a DUI conviction will have another six months added to the suspension, spend from 48 hours to six months in jail and fined $500-$1,000.

Small-business Angle

by Wilson S. Johnson

Entrepreneurs keep America competitive

In June, small-business owners from around the country gather in Washington, D.C. for the NFIB National Conference. In preparing my remarks for that event, I reviewed some of the primary issues and pillars of thought entrepreneurs hold dear.

For example, we hear the term free enterprise used often, but perhaps it is used casually by those who do not completely understand its meaning. Free enterprise is the successful marriage of personal freedom with economic freedom.

Many problems we face today are the result of moving away from principles of free enterprise. Think for a moment about the economic freedom you enjoyed twenty-five or thirty years ago. As personal freedom and economic freedom were watered down, so was the lifeblood of free enterprise. That system created more wealth and distributed it more widely than any other system in all of history. All the things we enjoy in our country have become possible through free enterprise.

But free enterprise cannot exist in the absence of competition. We must have the freedom to compete, offer new ideas, new products and new services. The small, independent-business person—the entrepreneur—is the symbol of free enterprise, the true competitor.

We now face a new problem: The rest of the world has learned how to compete very well by imitating what we have done, and while American productivity diminishes, that of other countries increases. Planning for the 1980's and beyond — management, labor and government must unite to improve productivity and to rekindle the ingenuity which made America the miracle of the 20th Century and the envy of people everywhere on this globe.

Government interference in our lives has grown astronomically in the past three decades and if we are to regain world leadership economically, it must be curtailed.

Let me illustrate what this means in a lesson of physics: You can heat water. If you keep heating water, a quantitative change will occur although there is scant evidence a change is taking place. But as soon as you continue to add heat, the water reaches a boiling point and at this point another change occurs — more visible. It is no longer a quantitative change. The water becomes something else. It becomes steam. It is no longer a change in degree — it is a change in kind.

And it happens quickly. I believe that is what is happening in our society. We see traces of steam bringing us to economic and political boiling points. We do not see the quantitative changes because we are too complacent and apathetic.

But if we do not act to turn down the heat, we will soon find that we have reached the point of no return. All we have known will have turned to steam by an all-pervasive federal bureaucracy.

(Wilson S. Johnson is president of the National Federation of Independent Business, representing more than half a million small-business men and women.)

Reader's interest piqued by capital punishment case

Dear Editor,
I have been reading with great interest all the attention a cold-blooded killer named Gray can get from the media and publicity-hungry attorneys looking to get a name for themselves at the expense of the public.

If I were them I couldn't sleep at night knowing I was trying to save the life of a man who has no regard for anyone else's.

Anyone who would commute this animal's sentence should take his place in the electric chair and fry.

I am totally outraged and disgusted that anyone even considers saving such a killer from the justified death he so richly deserves.

Senator
Cochran
reports

DISABILITY BENEFITS

Senator Thad Cochran is sponsoring a bill designed to help protect disability benefits of eligible Social Security recipients.

The Senator and a number of colleagues are sponsoring S. 476, to require the Social Security Administration to clearly show that recipients facing a cutoff of disability benefits have medically improved to a significant degree.

Each beneficiary would also be entitled to a face-to-face meeting with the state disability examiner before the decision to cut off benefits is made.

Also, any such beneficiary who is terminated could immediately appeal to an administrative law judge and continue receiving benefits until the appeal has been determined by the judge.

"We are seeking to bring a measure of fairness and uniformity to this process of trying to terminate benefits of Social Security disability recipients," Senator Cochran commented. "Many such beneficiaries have complained about the suddenness, and unfairness, of the process and policy in recent months."

He noted Congress last year passed, with his support, an emergency bill which expires Oct. 1, 1983, addressing the issue, to give lawmakers a chance to study and implement comprehensive reforms in the Social Security Title II disability program.

The senator pointed out a key provision in the new bill was that requiring SSA to show the beneficiary had significantly improved medically and was more capable of performing substantial gainful employment before action could be implemented terminating benefits for disability.

The agency would be required to develop a complete medical history of the beneficiary the past 12 months and make a reasonable effort to obtain this information from the recipient's treating physician.

Gulf Islands Seashore summer activities listed

The summer season for the Mississippi District of Gulf Islands National Seashore is underway and a number of activities are again being offered.

The most recent addition to the Mississippi District is the new visitor center located at the Davis Bayou Area (formerly Magnolia State Park) in Ocean Springs.

The new building, named for former U.S. Representative William M. Colmer, houses a sales outlet, visitor information desk, exhibit area, and auditorium, as well as the administrative offices for the Mississippi District.

The exhibit area features preserved plant and animal specimens and life size woodcarvings of birds and other animals native to the coast. The woodcarvings are the work of John Segeren, a former National Park Service employee, of Harpers Ferry, West Virginia.

Also featured in the exhibit area are copies of water colors by Walter Anderson, a well known local artist who spent a great deal of time on the islands that are now part of Gulf Islands National Seashore.

Currently showing in the auditorium is the 28 minute orientation film, "Gulf Islands: Beaches, Bays, Sounds and Bayous." The film is shown daily on the hour and half hour.

The new building's sales area offers more than 40 items, including prints, books and postcards, pertaining to the natural and cultural history of the seashore.

Also currently being displayed in the building's exhibit area are works by local artists provided by the Ocean Springs Art Association. The visitor center is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily and is free of charge.

The area around the Colmer Building includes a pier, picnic area, trails, boardwalks, and decks, which provide excellent views of the marsh, bayou and waters of the Mississippi Sound.

The popular marsh tours are also being offered again at the Davis Bayou area. This activity is conducted by park rangers and volunteers each Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evening at 6:30 p.m. Persons interested in taking part in this activity should meet in front of the new visitor center. The marsh tours are limited to 10 people per trip and children under 13 must be accompanied by an adult.

On Ship Island guided tours of Fort Massachusetts are given daily at 11:00 a.m. and again at 4:15 p.m.

The snorkeling program is also being offered again on Ship Island. This activity is primarily for people with little or no snorkeling experience. Equipment is provided, but the number of participants is limited to 12 people, and you must be at least 13 years old. The snorkeling is offered each day at 2:00 p.m. and begins in front of the fort.

Tourboats, under contract with the National Park Service, provide daily transportation to Ship Island from Biloxi and Gulfport.

Other activities are being planned and a park newspaper, The Gulf Islands Barnacle, is available to provide the park visitors with additional information.

All activities are free of charge and the general public is invited to participate. Anyone wishing additional information may call 875-9057.

Hancock County Forester

Mississippi is second highest in the Nation in number of "famous and historic trees."

The Magnolia State has 20 trees included in the American Forestry Association's bicentennial publication entitled "Famous and Historic Trees." Only one other state, Louisiana, has more than this.

Five trees from Mississippi were included in the Famous and Historic Trees book because of their association with notable people.

The Henry Clay Magnolias, located in Port Gibson, are among these.

According to oral tradition, in 1844 Henry Clay spoke to his supporters gathered on the lawn around these two magnificent magnolias when he was running for president.

The Councilor Oak in Biloxi is one of two trees associated with the development of the nation that was included in the historic trees publication.

The tree is called "Councilor Oak" because the Biloxi and other Indian tribes used the shade of the tree for councils and for feasts on coast seafoods and wild game.

The Cedar of Piney Woods School is one of our famous Mississippi trees associated with educators or educational institutions. In 1909, Dr. Lawrence C. Jones and one student started the Piney Woods Country Life School in Rankin County. Founded for the education of Black children of the South, the first classes were held under this huge cedar tree because the school had no funds.

The Cypresses of Suristan are historic trees associated with literature, music and science. These trees stand on a hill in Aberdeen and were planted in the 1830's or early 1840's by Reuben Davis, antebellum lawyer, judge, U.S. representative, brigadier general in the Confederate Army, and author of "Recollections of Mississippi and Mississippians."

Mississippi has four entrants in the American Forestry Association's Historic Trees publication because of their association with churches and religion.

The Presbyterian Live Oaks are in this category. This grove of ancient live oaks stands, in front of the Presbyterian Church in the Handsboro District of Gulfport.

The Memorial Drive Pin Oaks are Mississippi's entrant under the category of aesthetic, scenic and unusual trees. This entrant consists of 225 pin (water) oaks lining Memorial Drive in Cleveland, which were planted as a memorial to the servicemen of World War I.

Space will not allow a complete listing of all our Famous and Historic Trees.

Mississippi has a rich and colorful heritage and much has been done to preserve it by memorializing those trees that have been witness to some of the exciting periods in the Magnolia State's history.

ASCS NEWS

LAND REPORTING

The Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act of 1978 requires all foreign owners of U.S. agricultural land to report their holdings, acquisitions, dispositions, leases and land-use changes to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"This reporting requirement is still in effect," Gennin said, "and foreigners who have bought or sold agricultural land in Pearl River and Hancock Counties are reminded to report the transactions to our office within 90 days."

ASCS offices across the nation are charged with the responsibility of keeping track of how much agricultural land is owned or controlled by foreign individuals or interests. Foreign investors have reported owning about 12.7 million acres of agricultural land in the United States.

For reporting purposes, agricultural land is defined as any tract of more than one acre now in agricultural, forestry, or timber production. This includes land in agricultural use when purchased as well as land later converted to agricultural use.

"Interest means any right, title, or legal share of ownership in agricultural land, such as partnership, trusts, estates, or shares in a corporation that owns agricultural land," Gennin said.

Agricultural land owned by foreigners before February 1979 should have been reported by August 1979. Those who have acquired or disposed of agricultural land since that time are required to report the transactions within 90 days.

Foreigners who fail to report or who are late in reporting face possible fines. In FY 1982, USDA had assessed 267 penalties for late filings, amounting to $579,519.

Often, a farm operator, real estate dealer, bank, attorney, holding company, or other institution will report in behalf of foreign clients.

"Individuals or companies that specialize in land holding, land transfers, or management services should contact our office for details," the ASCS official said.

RSVP REPORT

By Theresa James, Director
Carl Baldenhofer, art instructor, recently donated a painting to Congressman Trent Lott to be hung in his Washington office.

Mr. and Mrs. Baldenhofer, Conrad Mauffray and Theresa James met with Lott in his Gulfport office to make the presentation.

We are very proud of Carl and enjoy the publicity his paintings receive.

A group of volunteers who help at the VA Hospital regularly were honored with a party on the hospital grounds.

Those attending were Eunice Arnold, Paul and Mary Lewis, Cora Coe, Esther Bussey, Marie Lotz, Rita Marti and Pere Cabibi.

RSVP provided transportation to this party where awards and refreshments were furnished. We enjoyed this recognition of volunteer service very much and look forward to this annual event.

Also in that week, we transported a group of volunteers to Jackson to receive an award from the governor for volunteer service to their community. Those who received awards and had lunch with the governor were Esther Bussey, Cora Coe, Grace Palloade, Joe Petta, Les and Cecile Galivan, Theresa Hubert and Geraldine Lang.

Every year since the governor has been awarding certificates of appreciation, one of our volunteers from Hancock County has won.

This year was no exception and again, we enjoy being able to offer transportation for such a special occasion as this. Congratulations to all of you for your contribution to our community.

Volunteer Singing Seniors recently entertained the Mississippi Gerontological Society's members with several songs. They were attending a conference at USM Gulf Park in Long Beach. After the singing everyone enjoyed some old fashioned ice cream cones. Charles Johnson, our driver, directs this group and enjoys leading them in singing at functions such as this. It warms the hearts of the audiences and we are grateful to be a part of bringing happiness to others.

Since 1973 we have grown to 304 volunteers who average 6,000 volunteers hours per month. Last year volunteers served 67,985 hours in Hancock County.

They serve at 36 "stations," which are non-profit agencies who use volunteers. Many stations show their appreciation in different ways and we also hold award parties once a year. This year we honored volunteers with a picnic on May 27.

We have received many donations and hope that any organization leaders or any other citizen in this county who would like to show their appreciation to volunteers to call the RSVP office (467-9204) and let us know.

Some of our volunteers who started ten years ago are still active and still serving.

We are looking forward to many more years of service to Hancock County.

NORDA coordinates seismic station installation

The Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity's Marine Seismic System Program Office at the National Space Technology Laboratories recently coordinated installation of the world's first permanent, self-contained seismic station beneath a deep ocean floor.

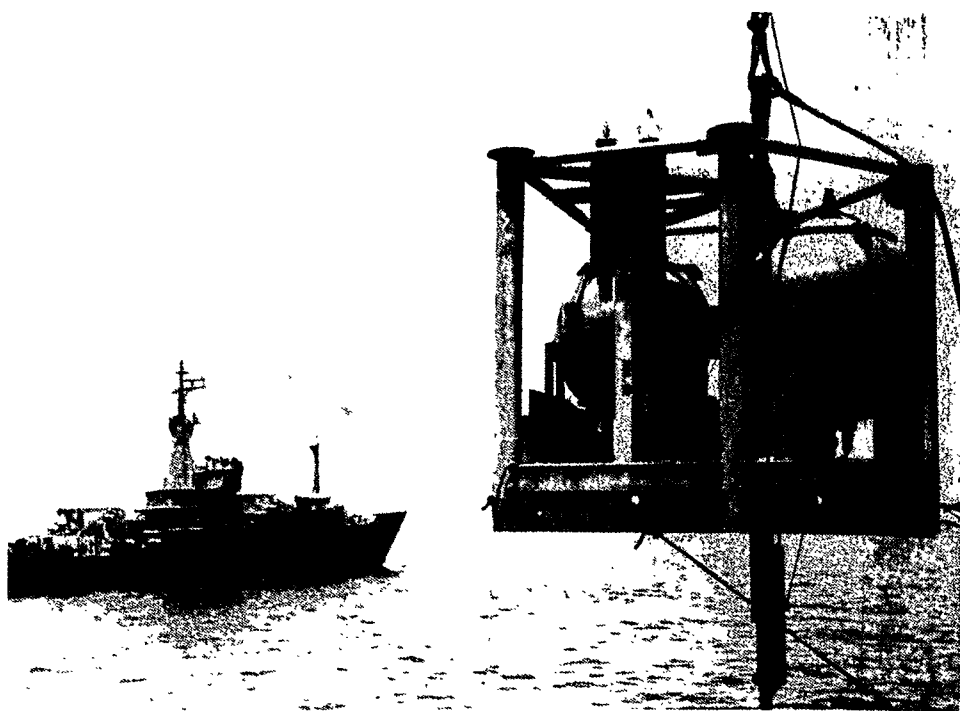

Dr. J.A. (Al) Ballard, MSS program manager reports that Assistant Program Manager Mike Harris recently returned to NORDA with data from the site, which is about 1,000 miles southwest of Tahiti near the Tonga Trench, believed to be the most active seismic zone on earth.

The borehole seismic station is an unmanned computer-controlled instrument package comprising of four seismometers and various other sensors in a 35-foot-long-by-eight-inch diameter cylinder, designed to withstand pressures of more than 10,000 pounds per square inch, and to resist the corrosive action of seawater, Ballard explains.

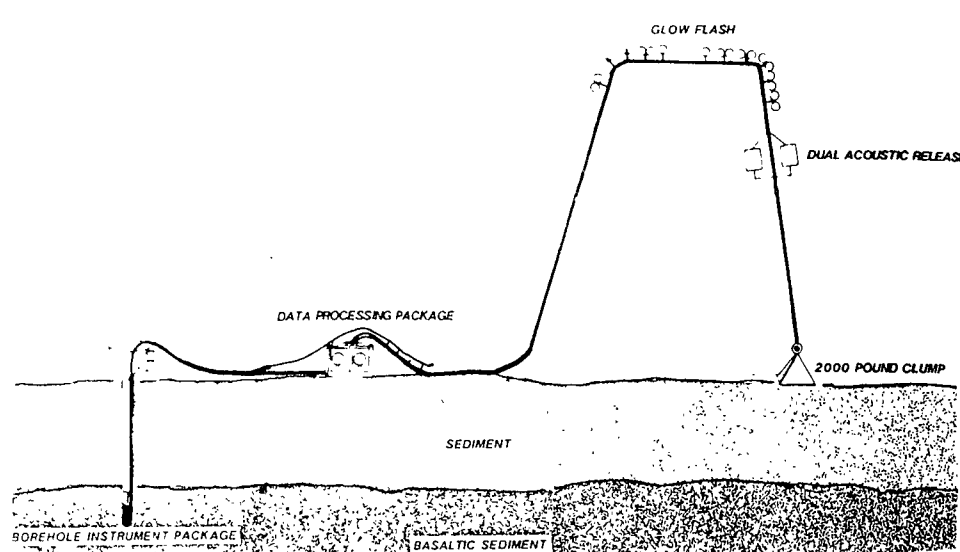

The cylinder was emplaced into a borehole by the 'Glomar Challenger' in the basaltic lavas of the deep ocean floor at a depth of 18,000 feet. The borehole was drilled 400 feet into the oceanic crust, and the instrument package was then lowered into the borehole; but it was kept attached by an electromechanical cable to a 10,000 pound, eight-foot-by-eight-foot-by-seven-foot data processing package, containing tape recorders, data processing equipment, and batteries to remotely record data for 45 days. He further explains.

The data processing package rested on the sea floor near the borehole since February 11, providing power to the borehole package and recording its seismic signals.

Then Harris, who had been on the Challenger when the borehole was drilled and the seismic station emplaced, returned to the site in mid-March aboard Research vessel Melville, recovered the bottom processing package and brought it back here to PROCESSING PACKAGE READY—The MSS data processing package developed by NORDA is hoisted over the side of the 'Glomar Challenger' on its way to the sea floor, more than three miles below, the Scripps Institution's Research Vessel Melville stands by.

NORDA MARINE SEISMIC SYSTEM CONCEPT

translate the data and to evaluate the overall success of this phase of the MSS program, Ballard says.

Seismic experts believe that such instruments as those developed by NORDA, when emplaced in basement rock at the bottom of boreholes, should be more sensitive to earthquakes than any but the very best land-based stations, able to detect even very small earthquakes, and able to discriminate between natural earthquakes and man-made events, he says.

This phase of the MSS program, which is sponsored by the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency, is the third, or validation, phase.

The first part took place in the mid-Atlantic in 1981, on Deep Sea Drilling Project 'Leg 78' to test out the concept of threading a seismometer into a drilled borehole, Ballard reports.

The second part of the effort, DSDP 'Leg 88' took place last August and September in the Aleutian-Kuril seismic zones of the northwest Pacific, when two attempts to drill a re-entry hole failed, and the primary borehole instrument package could not be deployed. However, a smaller, backup package designed and built by the Hawaii Institute of Geophysics was emplaced, and that phase of the project was successfully completed, he said.

The third phase, designated DSDP 'Leg 91,' is now being evaluated and documented at NORDA by Ballard, Harris and Steve Trowell of the MSS program team.

NORDA has managed the MSS program for four years.

Other groups participating in portions of the program have included The National Science Foundation, Hawaii Institute of Geophysics, Oregon State University, Scripps Institution of Oceanography, University of Texas, Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, Teledyne Geotech, Global Marine, Gould (D.E.D.), and the Naval Civil Engineering Laboratory.

Hancock fleet blessing set for Sunday at Cadet

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The annual Blessing of the Shrimp Fleet will be held Sunday, June 26, 2 p.m., at Bayou Cadet, according to Ronnie Ferrell, president of Gulf Fishermen, Inc.

The event sponsored by Gulf Fishermen and the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce is open both to commercial and pleasure craft.

Boats will be judged in two categories, with a first, second and third place trophy. One category is for boats up to 35 foot, and the other for boats over 35 foot in length.

A perpetual trophy will be awarded to one boat declared the over-all winner.

Ferrell said, "Food and refreshments will be available for the public. All profits will go to the B.J. Asher fund."

The Asher youth is in need of a lung pacemaker.

The fleet will be blessed by Father Lambert Stack, pastor of St. Ann's Catholic Church, Clermont Harbor, and St. John's Catholic Church, Lakeshore.

The Mississippi Commission on Wildlife Conservation on Tuesday set the opening of the shrimp season for 10 a.m. Monday, June 27.

promote employment and help the local businessman.

To join the program, once a businessman has set the sight for his business he would come to the city requesting help with services such as water lines, electrical wires, or roads to the business.

The government then gives the city a grant. The city then loans it out, to the businessman, at a preferred interest rate. The city can then recover and reinvest the money.

Council accepted an application from Ronald J. Artigues of Artigues Construction for a zoning change regarding Lots Seven and 16, Rear Fourth Ward, and Lot 156, Fourth Ward, City of Bay St. Louis, from R-1 (single-family residential) to R-2 (two-family residential) to R-1B (single-family residential B).

The property located on St. Charles from the I. & N Railroad tracks to Old Spanish Trail will be the site of the Pecan Park Subdivision.

Artigues said that he would like to have the entire property zoned R-1B, prohibiting the construction of duplexes and allowing the lot size requirement to be 70 feet.

He said the subdivision will be constructed under the state and city requirements and supervised by a professional engineer, James Chiniche.

Wilmer Seymour, councilman, said that many of the residents in the Ward Four area are complaining because they haven't received cable yet.

Seymour said that trunk lines have been strung but they are not being connected and asked the council if they would look into the matter.

Council members said that they thought that somewhere in the contract it is stated that the cable company guaranteed hookups within a year.

Another council member noted that the contract states where it is economically feasible.

Members said they would check into the matter.

Martine's stock and improved the Port Bienville construction site which he charges Dolph has damaged.

Dolphin officials promised to obtain a $12.3 performance bond for GME when the Houston company knew it could not, the records indicate.

The Texas company officials 'coerced and compelled' Gonzales in a supplemental agreement to give his stock and control of the project to Dolph, the suit documents state.

Dolphin became the alter ego of Gonzales Marine Enterprises' and GME became a 'straw man' for the Houston company, Morse writes.

Morse contends in the court documents that the supplemental agreement made Gonzales Marine liable for vendor and employee payments and 'insulated' Dolph from liability, but gave the Houston company complete control of the work.

Dolphin officials are accused of conspiring against GME to cause cost overruns and delays by requiring Gonzales to fire employees and rehire them as independent contractors which is a violation of state and federal wage and hour laws, Morse writes.

The Houston-based company also required Gonzales to hire 'costly' contractors and tried to create another corporation to make a lease payment to the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, the park managers, court records state.

At one time Dolph officials banned Gonzales from the work site unless he was accompanied by 'an armed guard,' but the project was falling behind in its Dec. 31, 1982 completion deadline so the Dolph officials asked the company president to return to oversee the job, the documents indicate.

Gonzales was then promised a $1,400 weekly salary to be paid through March 31 and assistance in securing additional contracts for GME, the documents report.

Morse contends those promises resulted in a 'fiduciary relationship' (a gentlemen's agreement) between Gonzales and Dolph.

However, after GME completed the job before the deadline, 'Van Duzer accused Gonzales of sabotaging the work' and the company president's salary ended in 'early March,' the record states.

The suit documents contend a 'breach' of the fiduciary relationship and 'the contract addendum resulted from a conspiracy of the defendant in restraint of trade, discrimination in pricing of materials and labor and improper tying arrangements with various vendors and subcontractors.'

Damages sought by Gonzales include:

—$1 million 'plus' for delivered goods and services;

—$2.5 million for breach of a fiduciary relationship;

—$2 million for slander;

—$2.5 million for breach of Federal Antitrust Laws and court and attorney fees;

—$2.5 million and a $500 penalty for breach of state laws regarding monopolies and restraint of trade;

—$2.5 million for deprivation of property without due process;

—$2.5 million for 'commission of a business tort.'

Punitive damages Gonzales is seeking include:

—$1 million for callous disregard of the rights of members of a class;

—$2.5 million based on the breach of a fiduciary relationship, commission of a 'business tort,' and callous disregard of a plaintiff's rights.

below the 'lowermost' aquifer located by test wells bored in a five-mile radius of the disposal facility.

He added EPA regulations only require the borings in a one-fourth-mile radius, but the state is more stringent in this aspect.

Hille reported Class Two wells are the only ones completely controlled by the oil and gas board and are strictly disposal facilities for that industry—the BPC is responsible for all others.

Class Three wells are for the extraction of minerals or energy, he said.

Class Four wells are outlawed by Mississippi because this classification is for facilities which dispose hazardous wastes into or above aquifers, Hille reported.

The geologist said Class Five wells include all other underground disposal methods such as air conditioning return flow wells and septic tanks—other than single family applications.

Lynn Havens seeking re-election to Southern District PSC post

Lynn Havens, chairman of the Mississippi Public Service Commission (Southern District) is seeking re-election to the commissioner's post.

In making his announcement, Havens stated that, since taking office in January of 1980, "It has been the most challenging, but rewarding position in which I have served."

Havens stated, "I sensed the need for a strong stand for consumers which I have taken. The services which this commission regulates vitally affect the economy and the well-being of our people."

"I have been faced since 1980 with $414,357,000 in requested rate increases and I have voted against $317,218,000 of those rate increases and by the end of this term will have been instrumental in securing in excess of $302,000,000 in refunds for the consumers of our state," he continued.

"The commission will be faced with many major and complex problems in the immediate future, but I do not know of any position that I would rather serve to benefit the citizens of our state," Havens added.

"In the last 60 days, I have been successful in passing utility reform which will provide closer and stricter regulations that I advocated upon taking office in 1980," the candidate stated.

"Also, the State Supreme Court has ruled in favor of the commission in the Mississippi Power Company case and the Mississippi Power and Light Company case."

"The Mississippi Power and Light Company case in 1980 was one in which I wrote the dissenting opinion and was the one dissenting vote against the increase and now the Supreme Court has upheld my dissenting opinion and will result in $70 million plus in refunds," he stated.

"I believe that we have reached the point where all of those involved, Legislative, Judicial and the Executive Branch of Government are taking a conservative view on utility reform which was badly needed for the ratepayers of this State," he feels.

"I am asking the people of the Southern District to allow me to serve them for a second term as Public Service Commissioner of the Southern District."

Mississippi shrimp season opening Monday at 10 a.m.

The Mississippi Commission on Wildlife Conservation this week set the opening of the shrimp season for Monday at 10 a.m.

The only change from the areas closed last year is that portion of Biloxi Bay north of a line from easternmost tip of

Areas in Hancock previously closed include the Bay of St. Louis and all areas within one-half mile of the shoreline, Gordon reported.

The shrimping regulations are based on recommendations of BMR, he noted.

He added, that portion of Biloxi Bay north of the forementioned line and the south of the line extending from one-half mile from the shoreline to Beacon No. 22 and the Biloxi Bay channel to the mouth of Grand Bayou on Deer Island will be opened for shrimping on Friday, July 8 at 10 a.m.

Wild bird feeding facts listed in federation booklet

Sixty million Americans feed wild birds, and almost everything they need to know about what seeds birds like is in the National Wildlife Federation's new booklet, "Wild Bird Feeding Preferences."

When birds are offered a commercial seed mix, some types of seeds disappear faster than others — because different birds prefer different kinds of foods.

"Wild Bird Feeding Preferences," by Dr. Aelred Geis and Donald Hyde Jr., tells you that the purple finch's favorite seed is the oil sunflower. You will also discover that the titmouse likes peanut kernels, and the house sparrow prefers white proso millet. In all, the preferred foods of over two dozen birds — including the cardinal, chickadee and scrub jay — are listed.

It rates seeds according to their appeal to 13 wild birds, listing 16 commonly used seeds that range from black-striped sunflower and golden millet, to fine cracked corn and wheat. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Urban Wildlife Research Program conducted the research on which this publication is based.

The booklet's cover drawing, by noted wildlife illustrator Bob Hines, shows these 13 birds in their normal feeding positions, with the American goldfinch on an elevated feeder eating sunflower seeds, and the brown-headed cowbird on a feeding table.

Dr. Geis' earlier publication, "Relative Attractiveness of Different Foods at Wild Bird Feeders," was published three years ago by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and was the all-time most requested publication in its series.

"Wild Bird Feeding Preferences" is available in single copies or in bulk, at the following prices: single copy, $1; 2-25 copies, 60 cents a copy; 26-50 copies, 45 cents a copy; 51-999 copies, 35 cents a copy; and more than 1,000 copies, 25 cents a copy. Write to: Wild Bird Feeding Preferences, Dept. 157, National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th St., NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Ducks Unlimited Artist selected

Shade Steel of Alligator, Mississippi was selected as the 1983 Mississippi Ducks Unlimited Artist of the Year.

Only 135 prints of his painting, "Winter Woodies," wood ducks in a Delta scene will be produced.

These signed and numbered prints will be available only at a Mississippi DU fund raising dinner.

Steel's painting was selected from 21 entries by Mississippi artists.

Jan Weber of Starkville was first runner-up.

Since 1975 Steel has had many of his works cross auction blocks in raising funds for DU and bringing Southern wildlife into many Southern homes.

Born and reared in Clarksdale, Steel and his wife Cathy now reside on Desoto Lake.

His work has appeared in Mississippi Game and Fish magazine, The DU magazine and Southern Outdoors.

He was honored as the Louisiana Wildfowl Carver and Collector-Guild Artist of the Year in New Orleans.

Judges for the contest were Sam Roberts, wildlife artist from Oregon City, Oregon; Joe Michelet, wildlife artist from Mobile, Ala.; and Jerome Jackson, professor of biology at Mississippi State University.

The human body is built around a frame containing 206 bones. The whole works is linked together with 60,000 miles of blood vessels.

PRC's Holmes opts for the money

Billy Holmes, head basketball coach at Pearl River College since 1978, has resigned to accept a head coaching job at Houston, Texas.

Holmes, who was serving as head coach of both the PRC Wildcats and Lady Wildcats, accepted the head coaching job at Jersey Village High in the Cypress-Fairbanks School District in the city of Houston last week.

Holmes is finishing up his seventh year as the Wildcats' head coach. Back in 1972 he moved from Houston to Pearl River only to move to McNeese State University as an assistant coach in 1974.

Holmes returned to Pearl River in 1978 and led the Wildcats to three winning seasons. The Wildcats' best season came two years ago when his club put together a 19-9 ledger, placed third in the south Division and advanced to Region Seven competition in the National Junior College Tournament in Memphis.

Back in '79-80, the Wildcats posted an 18-8 record. Overall, while coaching at PRC, Holmes has won 88 and lost 86.

Three years ago Holmes took over the Lady Wildcats and immediately made the PRC girls a state and national power. During the past three years the Lady 'Cats have put together a 50-22 record, two South Division championships and two trips to the National Junior College Region Seven Tournament.

Holmes' record after the 80-81 season was 17-4. The next year his Lady 'Cats were 19-6 and knocked off the nation's number three team before losing to powerhouse Northwest.

Last year, after losing two starters before school began and working with a host of freshmen, the Lady Wildcats finished with a 14-8 ledger. Holmes' '83-84 team has the makings of a state and national power, as five starters are returning, including two all-stars.

According to Dr. Marvin R. White, Pearl River College president, assistant coach Ned Eades will take over the PRC girls team in addition to his head coaching job as PRC's baseball coach. The school will advertise for a head boys basketball coach.

Holmes said he hated to leave PRC, but monetarily the opportunity was too great to turn down. "I'll really miss the River and our many friends," Holmes said.

The public is invited to attend the feature race and then join in and try their luck in the Two-Mile Mid-Summer Run which will start around 8:15 a.m.

Registration will begin at 6:30 a.m. and last until 7:45 a.m. at the southwest parking area of the mall.

Fitness Facts

TRAINING FOR A ROAD RACE

As more and more Americans interested in physical fitness take up running (over 25 million so far), a large percentage of these are entering races to publicly test their personal progress. Here, from the experts, are some training tips you might follow:

• You should not enter a race unless you have run that distance regularly or have comfortably gone at least 2/3 to 3/4 of that distance in your training runs. Running a race requires both mental and physical conditioning. The tendency is to run faster and the mental pressure to push harder is greater. Finishing is more important than winning.

• Train with other runners so you have the feel of other runners around you. If possible, try to run over terrain surface and in weather conditions that are similar to those you will encounter in the race. Excessive cold, hot or humid weather should be avoided.

• Don't commit yourself to running in races too close together and never race after a fallow period in training. It's too late to start conditioning a day or two before a race. You're either in shape or you're not.

• Regardless of how you may feel, it is also a good idea never to race following an illness or injury unless you have a physician's approval. If unusual pain or discomfort occurs during training runs, stop and take care of the problem. Safety should be your first priority.

• Use other aerobic exercises to supplement your running program like: swimming, bicycling, and brisk walking, etc.

• Drink lots of water and avoid running to exhaustion the week before the race. Run only to limber up and keep the legs from stiffening that last week. Adequate rest and proper diet are more important.

• Race in well-fitted, impact-reducing, broken-in running shoes, the same shoes you train in. Never race in new shoes.

These training tips were provided by Washington National Insurance Company, sponsor of the annual nationwide Washington National Fitness Classic.

This camp is designed to help boys and girls improve their soccer capabilities. Training consists of instruction through media and actual field practice. Also, the small staff-camper ratio should enhance the learning process.

Registration can be accepted on the opening day of the camp with application and payment of fees.

For further information on the soccer camp, contact the Intramural-Recreational Sports Department, Southern Station, Box 5155, Hattiesburg, MS 39406 or call (601) 266-5405.

Bond — James Bond — is back, and better than ever in his latest international extravaganza, "Octopussy."

All the ingredients are again blended perfectly—superb locations ranging from India to England to East/West Germany, a bevy of gorgeous ladies in various states of undress, innumerable gadgets and gimmicks from the lethal mind of Q, a pace that will leave you exhausted and the usual tongue-in-cheek humor doled out by Ian Fleming's quintessential intelligence creation.

The general plotting of a Bond movie matters very little; you simply recognize the bad guys early on and then cheer as Bond literally throws himself into their grasp, only to miraculously escape again and again.

This movie runs the gamut of action like a 100-yard dash. From its opening pre-credit sequence involving Bond in a small plane pursued by a heat-seeking missile to the phenomenal finale, "Octopussy" never slows up to catch its breath.

As the villains, Louis Jordan, Kabir Bedi and Steve Berkoff provide enough menace for three Bond films. And the lovely likes of Kristina Wayborn and Maud Adams, in the title role, provide enough distraction to keep the inevitably professional 007 occupied.

This is Roger Moore's sixth movie as James Bond, a role, it seems, he has come to relish. But 1983 will see the battle of the Bonds because in the fall Sean Connery, the original super spy ("Dr. No"—1962, believe it or not), will appear in "Never Say Never Again," a remake of "Thunderball." The public can then choose which is the real James Bond.

But for now, "Octopussy" is fun, fast and great entertainment for those who enjoy first-rate action with just a passing glance at intellectual content. FILM CLIPS

A recap of some of the movies playing at local theaters: "Return of the Jedi" (), "Trading Places" (½).

On HBO

"Dolly Parton's London Concert" is great stuff! The vivacious, curvaceous Parton speaks to her audience as if everyone of them—including some rather outrageous punksters—are in her living room at home. Her songs are energetic and performed with genuine emotion. Her best songs such as "Jolene," "Appalachian Memories" and "I Will Always Love You," are combined with her biggest hits such as "Nine to Five," "Here You Come Again," and "Coat of Many Colors."

The pre-concert footage is interesting and there is an intriguing press conference which should shock a few of Parton's fans. In all, a mesmerizing 90 minutes of good, down home singin'.

"Deathtrap" gets three stars for its devilishly clever plot and the wonderful performances by the leads, Michael Caine, Christopher Reeve and Dyan Cannon. Watch for Sidney Lumet's excellent direction of Ira Levin's long-running Broadway play.

"Poltergeist," which was directed by Steven Spielberg by Tobe Hooper, will positively scare your socks off. It's interesting to see everyone's reaction when they think the movie is over, heck, that's only the beginning. Special effects take the front seat in this sci-fi shocker.

"Some King of Hero" is mediocre fare worth watching for Richard Pryor's best "character" acting job to date. I say character acting because Pryor's "Concert" films are genuine classics.

Jobs available at Alcorn

Alcorn State University has approximately one thousand summer jobs available for prospective students who will be enrolling at Alcorn for the 1983-84 academic year.

Students who are already enrolled at the University with satisfactory academic progress can also apply. Available jobs will be based on economic need.

To find out if you qualify, call this toll free number, 1-800-222-6790, or contact the Office at Financial Aid at (601) 877-6190 or 877-6191.

WHO IS THIS GUY?—It used to be a 24-foot striped scarf and always a cache of jellybabies in the pocket. Now it's a cricket suit, and a sprig of celery has replaced the sweets. But he's still the Doctor, as in "Doctor Who" and as eccentric as ever. Peter Davison is the new Doctor, whose latest set of adventures through time and space premieres on Mississippi ETV at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, June 25. Rebroadcasts of the "Doctor Who" series starring Davison's popular curly-haired predecessor, Tom Baker, will continue to be seen at 6 p.m., weekdays, on ETV. Whether it's Davison's handsome athlete or Baker's charming, over-sized moppet, each of the actors who has portrayed the Doctor in the series' long history has contributed his own unique characterization to the show. Critics say that's what keeps it going. The show is presently in its 20th season and is the longest-running science fiction series in the world. Preceding Davison's first adventure, "Castrovalva" on June 25, ETV will air a half-hour documentary about "Doctor Who," "Once Upon a Time Lord," at 7 p.m.

SORORITY LEADERS—Rachel Gex, left, of Diamondhead Pa thellic delegate of Kappa Delta Sorority of University of Mississippi in Oxford, along with Melissa Thompson, center, of Ocean Springs, editor of Kappa Delta, and Kelly Colingo of Pascagoula, president, Kappa Delta, are preparing the group's summer rush programs.

Early testing, counseling offered at The River

Pearl River College's vocational-technical department will provide basic skills testing and counseling this summer for those students who want to get a step ahead on the fall registration process.

According to Dr. James Sones, dean of vocational-technical education, the pre-testing is a service to vocational-technical students enrolling at Pearl River College.

"All vo-tech students are required to take a basic skill strength and weakness test before entering PRC," Dr. Sones said. "We are merely giving the students an opportunity to get the test out of the way this summer."

The test will be given daily at 9 a.m., Monday through Friday, at the Learning Resource Center in Hancock Hall on the PRC campus. PRC officials will either administer a math and reading or a math and language test which are designed to determine if a student should enroll in a PRC course.

Band director symposium set

The University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg will conduct a conductor's symposium for band directors July 18-21.

Topics to be covered include conducting, rehearsal and teaching techniques, methods for developing and maintaining good ensemble, balancing the band, developing ensemble tone quality, and musical style and interpretation, a USM spokesman lists.

Symposium director will be Dr. James I. Nail, director of bands at USM.

Registration will be conducted July 18 from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. in the lobby of McLemore Hall.

For further information contact the Department of Conferences and Workshops, Hattiesburg, Miss. 39406, or call 283-4189.

basic study class.

The basic study classes in English, reading and mathematics are designed to help a student reach normal competency levels for college freshmen. The score made on the test will not have a bearing on whether the student will be permitted to enroll at PRC.

After the test is taken the student will be advised on the courses he or she needs to take this fall.

For more information call the PRC Vocational-Technical Center at 601-795-2288. The pre-testing is for vo-tech students only. Academic students are not required to be tested this summer.

The regular testing session is scheduled for Friday, August 19 at 8:15 a.m.

News Brief

COMPUTER CAMP

Kenneth John LeSieur of Pearl River College attended the University of Southern Mississippi Department of Computer Science and Statistics' recent Computer Week Camp for students.

Students learned to program using the BASIC and LOGO language. "Hands-on" experience using the TRS-80 and Apple II Microcomputers were an integral part of the camp.

MSU HONORARY—Matthew C. Hunter Jr., of Waveland, left, is a charter member and first president of Alpha Nu Sigma national honor society in nuclear science and engineering at Mississippi State University. The charter was presented for the national organization by MSU academic vice president Robert E. Wolverton. Membership in the society is open to juniors in the top 25 percent and seniors and graduate students in the top third of their respective classes. Hunter, a graduate of St. Stanislaus High School, received his undergraduate degree from MSU May 13. He is now employed with Carolina Power Co.

Child Development Center fund-raiser successful

Hancock County Child Development Center recently staged a fund-raiser at the Lions Club Hall, 136 Blaize Street.

Bay St. Louis and Waveland merchants donated prizes and the Hancock County Lions Club donated equipment and time.

The Hancock County Child Development Center is a Title XX program under the Southern Mississippi Human Resource Agency.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors provide matching funds and the program is monitored by the Department of Public Welfare.

The Title XX Program does not include funds for field trips, so fund raising projects are used for transportation and educational experiences for the children, according to Jane Baumgartner, center director.

"Our present fund-raiser will be used to take children on a trip to the Tulane University Children's Theater to see their production of 'Pinocchio.'"

PRC accepting bus driver applications

Applications for driving a Pearl River College commuter bus this coming school year are now being taken by Dean Miller Hammill in the Administration Building on the PRC campus.

According to Hammill applications will be taken until July 10. Pearl River College provides a commuter bus system from all points within the six county PRC district.

Pearl River College serves Hancock, Forrest, Jefferson Davis, Marion, Lamar and Pearl River Counties. Pearl River College bus drivers must be full-time students enrolled at PRC.

For more information call 601-795-4553.

OLE MISS GREEKS—Shelley Stewart, left, of Pass Christian, recent recipient of a Taylor Medal and treasurer of Omicron Delta Kappa honor society, is a member of Kappa Delta Sorority at the University of Mississippi. Stacey Tyner of Jackson, also a Taylor Medalist, is secretary of KD at Ole Miss.

Used by permission; all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, Mo.

QUESTION—What should parents look for to determine if their children are on drugs?

ANSWER—Here are possible signs of drug abuse, but they also may be symptoms of other physical or emotional difficulties.

1. Fluctuation in the width of the pupils of the eyes not accounted for by changes in light.

2. Laughing excessively at things no one else thinks are funny.

3. Tendency to sit looking off into space.

4. Appearance of intoxication with no smell of alcohol.

5. Staying out longer hours than usual and giving evasive answers when questioned about it.

6. Avid reading of books and articles dealing with the drug culture.

7. Loss of appetite, perhaps with a rapid loss of weight.

8. The reverse—an increase in appetite; wild forays on the refrigerator.

Britt receives UM scholarship

Warren Keith Britt of Bay St. Louis has been awarded a university scholarship at The University of Mississippi. The university awards more than 100 scholarships each academic year to entering freshmen and transfer students who are residents of Mississippi. Applicants are judged on the basis of scholarship, leadership and need. Funds for the university scholarships are offered through gifts from alumni and friends of Ole Miss, and from traffic fines on campus, university spokesman reports. University Scholarships are among the more than 150 types of scholarships awarded each year to students at Ole Miss, the spokesman says. Britt, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Willis Britt, attended Bay Senior High School in Bay St. Louis.

He was a member of the National Honor Society, French Club and the Society of Distinguished American High School Students and received the Journalism and a Cum Laude awards on the National Latin Exam. Britt plans to major in journalism at Ole Miss.

Nursing Department heads shift at USM

Nursing Department organizational changes at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg, scheduled to become effective July 1, include the appointments of Gerry Cadenhead and Martha Wittenauer as assistants to the dean of the school. Dr. Jerri Morgan of the university says Cadenhead's and Wittenauer's titles will be changed to assistant dean and assistant professor of nursing, respectively. Cadenhead's responsibilities will be extended to include the baccalaureate program and administration of Meridian and Gulf Park campus operations. Wittenauer's responsibilities will be expanded to include the graduate program and the instructional resource program. Carolyn Reed will be coordinator for the Learning Center, one of two units within the department's Instructional Resource Program, Morgan says. Virginia Newbern will become director of Nursing Continuing Education at USM, he added.

Waveland dance school's 25th review set Saturday

Piccola's School of Dance in Waveland, in celebration of its silver anniversary, is presenting its 25th Annual Revue, "Through the Years" at the St. Augustine Seminary Gymnasium in Bay St. Louis on Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

For this special occasion, former students from as far away as Texas and Florida are scheduled to attend or participate in the show, Meta Garside reports.

Local officials have been invited to the revue, including Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett and Waveland Mayor Johnny Longo, Garside says. All 16 of Piccola Dietrich's graduates plus two who will receive degrees that night (Amy Welch and Niccola Dietrich) will perform the grand finale, "Thanks for the Memories," Garside says. "The graduates will be joined by the entire cast, which is a big one," says Dietrich. The graduates will also do a special routine of "Last Dance," Dietrich adds. "Out of 18 graduates, seven are teacher of dance themselves," Dietrich says. "A souvenir book will be at the door for all former students to sign," she adds.

Invitations may be obtained by calling Dietrich at 467-4666 or at the door. Souvenir anniversary programs and T-shirts will also be available.

"The audience is invited to come and help us celebrate after the show with cake and punch at our special celebration," Dietrich concluded.
